Creates Sensation at Her Country Home in Virginia

IMAGINES HUSBAND WANTS TO KILL HER

Mrs. Katherine Gould Creates Scene at Hotel.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 5.—Mrs. Katherine Clemens Gould, divorced wife of Howard Gould, arrived from her country home at Blue Gap, 10 miles away, driving a team of mules, covered with foam, having covered the distance in 65 minutes, and claimed she had been poisoned by her negro cook. She went at once to the Hotel Carroll, secured a room and had a physician summoned. Dr. E. A. Vaughn was soon at her bedside. After a thorough examination the physician announced that he could find no evidence of poisoning and gave her no medicine, saying she required none. Persons who were present at the time state that Mrs. Gould said her husband was trying to have her murdered, and that this was the third attempt upon her life within the past two months.

BRIBERY IS CHARGED

Attorney Erbstein Says Wayman Tampered With Juror.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Attorneys for Attorney Erbstein, indicted for alleged bribery of a juror in the second trial of Lee O'Neill Browne, placed formal charges against State's Attorney Wayman, asking that he be disbarred on the charge of bribing a juror in a criminal case several years ago before he became the Cook county prosecutor.

The charges reached the Chicago Bar association at the same hour that Erbstein's case came to its first hearing before Judge Ben M. Smith in the criminal court. The charges will be taken up by the grievance committee of the association Monday. State's Attorney Wayman received a setback in his efforts to force the case to immediate trial, Judge Smith granting a continuance and reprimanding the state's attorney's office as "unfair."

Florence Stevens concluded the program with a very interesting leaflet on Thanksgiving. Refreshments were served by Messdames Ransom, Hobbs, Whitney, Osborn, Parrott and Miss Ada O'Brien.

Pity Your Poor Boy at College; Think How He Must Study

Pity the poor college boy! While you are at home, remembering that Tom must have a check on the first of the month, think of all of his troubles. You have only to worry over digging up the interest to pay on the mortgage, while Tom must stay up nights wondering if he is going to be invited to the next "hop" or if his team will clean up the rival college at football. Truly, the life of the college youth is a strenuous one. For example, each college must find some new way of celebrating—some new idea in creating a laugh or "pulling off high links" that will be talked about. An eastern college filled with some 2,000 students decided that it would be a grand young plan to burlesque the suffragettes, and as a result they robed themselves in clown clothes, borrowed or bought a wagon and marched through the streets of the college town singing funeral dirges.

MURDERED IN SHOP WAS A SHOE MAKER

Pittsburg, Nov. 5.—Hanging by a rope attached to a shelf in the rear of a shoe shop the body of Lawrence Famelli, Italian shoemaker, was found by a prospective customer. Suicide was the theory first advanced, but as soon as Lengia Famelli, his brother, had seen the body, he declared, "My brother has been murdered. He didn't commit suicide because he had no reason to do it, and the money he had in his clothes is missing."

Police do not know whether to suspect the Black Hand or some secret enemies of Famelli. Every fact learned by detectives substantiates the theory of murder.

interesting to recall that the interest in the coming election is insignificant as compared with the state of the public mind half a century ago. Fifty years ago today the nation was waiting with feverish intensity the result of the most memorable election in the history of the country. The following day, Nov. 6, 1860, Abraham Lincoln was elected president. A few weeks later came Buchanan's message that while the South had no right to secede, the Government had no right to use coercion. The year closed with the rising of the curtain for South Carolina's prelude of the Civil War, the ordinance of secession having been passed December 20. Thenceforth events hastened toward a crisis, and the spring of 1861 found the nation at war.
